 As a result of the cooperation between the two groups, the new standard has been called ANSI/ASME A13.1, or ASME A13.1. The 2007 edition dramatically changed the color code to identify the type of hazard posed by a pipe's contents, rather than only showing whether the contents were hazardous.
Scheme for the Identification of Piping Systems A13.1 - 2015
 A13.1 is intended to establish a common system to assist in identification of hazardous materials conveyed in piping systems and their hazards when released in the environment. This scheme concerns identification of contents of piping systems in industrial and power plants. It is also recommended for the identification of piping systems used in commercial and institutional installations, and
