What is a Tooth Tattoo? \(with pictures\) - wisegeek.com

A tooth tattoo is a relatively recent invention in cosmetic dentistry that is considered "dental bling." Much like a skin tattoo, a tooth tattoo is a permanent image that is added to the tooth. The difference with a tooth tattoo is that it is created on a crown that is then attached to the tooth by a dentist. Also, if a person decides to have a tooth tattoo removed, the process is much easier.

Shark Tooth Tattoo. When I was a kid, the shark tooth necklace was a badass thing to have. The cool kids were wearing them and I wanted to be like them. But why were we wearing them? Sharks are cool and all but maybe there was more meaning behind it. The shark tooth represents male strength, potency and masculinity. So instead of having a shark tooth necklace, which might be a bit outdated.

A tooth tattoo is not actually a tattoo on your tooth but rather artwork that is part a dental crown or dental veneer. The artwork gets painted onto a dental crown before finishing firing the porcelain. A dentist will usually, but not always, need to get you numb. Next the dentist will prepare the tooth by removing some of the outside layer of the tooth structure. The steps are not any
