Whale Talk is a masterfully woven tale that traces Tao through his struggles in a racist society that is also a little elitist. Tao, like most of Crutcher's protagonists, is a great athlete with a strange sense of humor. Tao enjoys getting even with those who single out he, or any other character in the high school that is different, by using the predators' ignorance against them. All in all

Whale Talk by Chris Crutcher - Goodreads

When you start reading Whale Talk by Chris Crutcher, you might take the wonderful humor and cynicism of the main character, T.J., as a sign that this is going to be the usual coming-of-age, snarky-teen-protagonist tale common in YAL. The guy is named The Tao Jones for Pete's sake; the jokes practically write themselves. However, some readers might glance over the very heavy and heart

Whale Talk - Wikipedia

Whale Talk is a 2001 novel by young adult writer Chris Crutcher. It is narrated in the first person by the quick-witted, sarcastic, and athletic "T.J." Jones, an adopted Asian-African-European-American teenager living in Cutter, Washington, a fictional location in the Pacific Northwest's Inland Empire, set about 50 miles outside of Spokane.

Whale Talk is a more than a high school sports story. It's a bible for how to be a man in a world that is getting more crazy everyday. If you're reading my review, you probably already know the plot from previous reviews, so I'll say something different. Tj Jones is a class act, and a role model for how to be humble and decent when blessed with extordianry talents. Whale Talk made me laugh
